

ABSTRACT

[0142] The present invention relates to a system and computer-based method that is used to determine thermodynamic environment differences within a protein. This method is used to construct a database of proteins, wherein the database can be used to identify correct sequences that correspond to a particular target fold.

205T0"422400T
10047724.014502